PERSONAL/PROFESSIONAL INFORMATION FOR PRACTICUM PLANNING

The material on this page is confidential, and will only be used by the Field office to determine placement options. It is important that this office is aware of any circumstances that may interfere with your performance in the field. If you wish to speak in confidence about any such circumstances, please make an appointment with the Director of Field Education or a Field Coordinator.

Please list and discuss any other personal limitations or circumstances that might possibly affect your field practicum. Include your class schedule, schedule for other jobs, outside activities, family commitments, lack of or availability of an automobile. Also discuss any limitations regarding certain populations and/or settings in which you feel would not be comfortable in working. Remember the more limitations you have the fewer choices for a better placement.

The MSW internship is an integral, vital component of professional education for social work practice. It demands the engagement of the “whole” person and involves personal as well as professional issues/circumstances/life experiences in the student’s past and current life situation. There are some practicum situations which, given specific vulnerabilities of an individual student or circumstances of work with a given client population or in a particular agency, might place the student at either physical or emotional risk.

I understand that the information provided above is confidential and will be shared only with other faculty if it is salient to my educational or practicum planning.
